WORKPLACE INVESTIGATIONS

A prompt and impartial workplace investigation can be the best tool for an employer to not only defend against legal claims, but also to understand the workplace culture and take effective remedial action to ensure the culture is a positive and productive one.

At Weintraub Tobin, the attorney-investigators have years of experience in employment law and take pride in providing top-notch independent investigations for both private companies and public agencies. Our attorney-investigators have conducted hundreds of investigations into various workplace issues, including:

- Harassment
- Discrimination
- Retaliation and Whistleblowing
- Theft and Embezzlement
- Violence
- Code of Conduct and Ethics Violations
- Public Contract Violations

Our attorneys are charter and sustaining members of the Association of Workplace Investigators (“AWI”), the first association of its kind to set standards and best practices for workplace investigations. In addition to conducting independent investigations, the attorney-investigators at Weintraub Tobin also conduct in-depth training programs to train attorneys and human resource professionals on how to conduct legally effective workplace investigations and serves as an expert witness in state and federal employment lawsuits on the subject of workplace investigations.

We go to great lengths to investigate workplace matters in prompt, impartial, and confidential manner, treating everyone involved with respect and dignity. Because we are a full-service law firm, our attorney-investigators have the necessary resources to conduct timely, top-notch investigations and provide well-written and useful investigation reports.

Testimonials

“Thank you for providing such a thorough and informative training. Our audience ranged from experienced to novice investigators and everyone left with a deeper understanding of the guiding principles of conducting workplace investigations. You provided levity and authority that help lend to a very engrossing interactive training style.”
